Introduction

The capacity of hotels in Egypt during the first decade of the twenty-first century increased rapidly. Therefore, the interior designer must pay attention to the application of the required standards to attract tourists to Egypt by making use of the Egyptian heritage in designing tourist facilities, given Egypt's uniqueness of ancient civilizations. When tourism became one of the most important forms of economic relations between countries, the importance of studying the tourist market emerged. And its parts to find the most important ways to develop tourism, and the study of the tourist market is considered one of the most important studies undertaken by the state because it plays an important role in identifying the nature of this market in terms of it being a major, secondary or potential market, in addition to the possibility of understanding the characteristics of each market. In order to develop the optimal marketing strategy to face it.

In its simplest form, the tourist market represents all individuals and institutions that seek to satisfy specific needs and desires in Tourist places that offer a range of tourism products that are related to a tourist site, with the support of some auxiliary factors such as transportation of all kinds, hotels, restaurants, and others. Whereas, the tourist market has two sides, one of which is the tourist demand and the other is the tourism supply. In addition to all the prevailing tourism services.
